

The perfectly familiar grip of your small, warm hand in mine. Stroking, wiping, holding, carrying followed by pushes and hugs, strangles and slaps and slams, all encompassing until I pull away in search of time and space. The impression of your touch linger, imprinted on my palms.